Overview

- Rental housing in Central Ontario is reaching a “tipping point.” With the combination of rising housing prices, low vacancy rates and increased condominium rentals, leaders are looking at how to increase the diversity of housing stock and affordability – in particular, purpose-built rental housing.
- The forum will facilitate evidence-based discussions through peer-to-peer learning among municipal representatives, selected developer organizations and housing consultants on the challenges with supply of rental housing and opportunities to incent attainable rental housing.
